

Recent flooding

What can you do now?

Check with the emergency services that it's safe to return to your property.

Do not turn on your water, gas or electricity. Get your utilities company or a qualified engineer to check they are safe before turning them back on.

Report Flooding

We understand it is a difficult time when people are affected by flooding, however if your home or business has flooded, please make sure you report it as close to the event as possible:

www.gov.uk/report-flood-cause

Reporting flooding helps agencies to respond and prioritise recovery efforts, and helps capture the true costs of a flood, building a case for future interventions.

What local support is available?

If you have been impacted by flooding and it is not possible to remain in your home, your local authority may be able to help with temporary rehousing. They may also be able to assist with other welfare issues or offer financial support. www.gov.uk/find-local-council

Insurance

If you are insured, contact your insurance provider as soon as possible. You may need to make your home safe, however, do not carry out any works that will prevent your insurer from assessing the property damage if they need to.

Look at the details of your insurance policy. As part of Flood Re's Build Back Better scheme, some insurers will pay an extra £10,000 as part of your claim for flood repairs, for adaptations to your property that could reduce future flood impacts. Find out more: www.floodre.co.uk/buildbackbetter/

If you're not insured, contact your local council or charities such as National Flood Forum 01299 403055 www.nationalfloodforum.org.uk, to find out if there are any grants or other support available. If your property is rented, your landlord is responsible for flood damage repairs to your home.

Cleaning up

Keep records and take photos of the damage before cleaning up and follow your insurers advice.

Anything that's been exposed to floodwater will be contaminated, so careful steps should be taken to look after your health. However, many items will be salvageable and can be reused if appropriate clean up steps are taken.

Advice on drying out and cleaning items can be found here:

Recovering from a flood can be a very difficult time

If you have concerns about your own or others' mental health, or your distress continues over an extended period, visit your GP or call NHS 111, who can help to identify further sources of support. Helplines, such as Samaritans, can provide support to anyone in emotional distress or struggling to cope. The Samaritans free helpline is available 24 hours a day on 116123.

Flood Warnings

Continue to check for any current or future flood warnings and sign up for flood warnings to get updates: www.gov.uk/flood

Flood warnings are issued for main river, sea and groundwater. The Flood Warning Service does not include surface water flooding.

Sign up to the MetOffice National Severe Weather Warning Service via web or app to give you advance notice of heavy rainfall that could lead to surface water flooding.

You can also take these actions by calling Floodline 0345 988 1188

Property Flood Resilience (PFR)

As part of repairs to your home you can make it more resilient to flooding by including PFR. PFR includes a range of measures that can be installed on a building to reduce the risk of floodwater entering the property. PFR can also be used to make the inside of a property more resilient (also known as recoverability) minimising damage even if water enters the building.
